Assabet Health Tech Students Earn CNA Designation

Area. Once again, the seniors in the Health Technology program at Assabet Valley Regional Technical High had a 100% passing rate on the Certified Nursing Assistant exam, adding one more third party certification to their growing list of accomplishments. As graduates of the Health Technology program, not only are these students totally prepared to enter college in one of the many medical fields, but are also in high demand for immediate employment in many health fields. With college level Anatomy and Physiology already behind them, most of these students find themselves way ahead of their classmates in the college programs, according to several recent graduates.

At the recent pinning ceremony, parents and friends were invited to the school to share in the proud moment.
