

Potential for Heavy Rainfall This Week

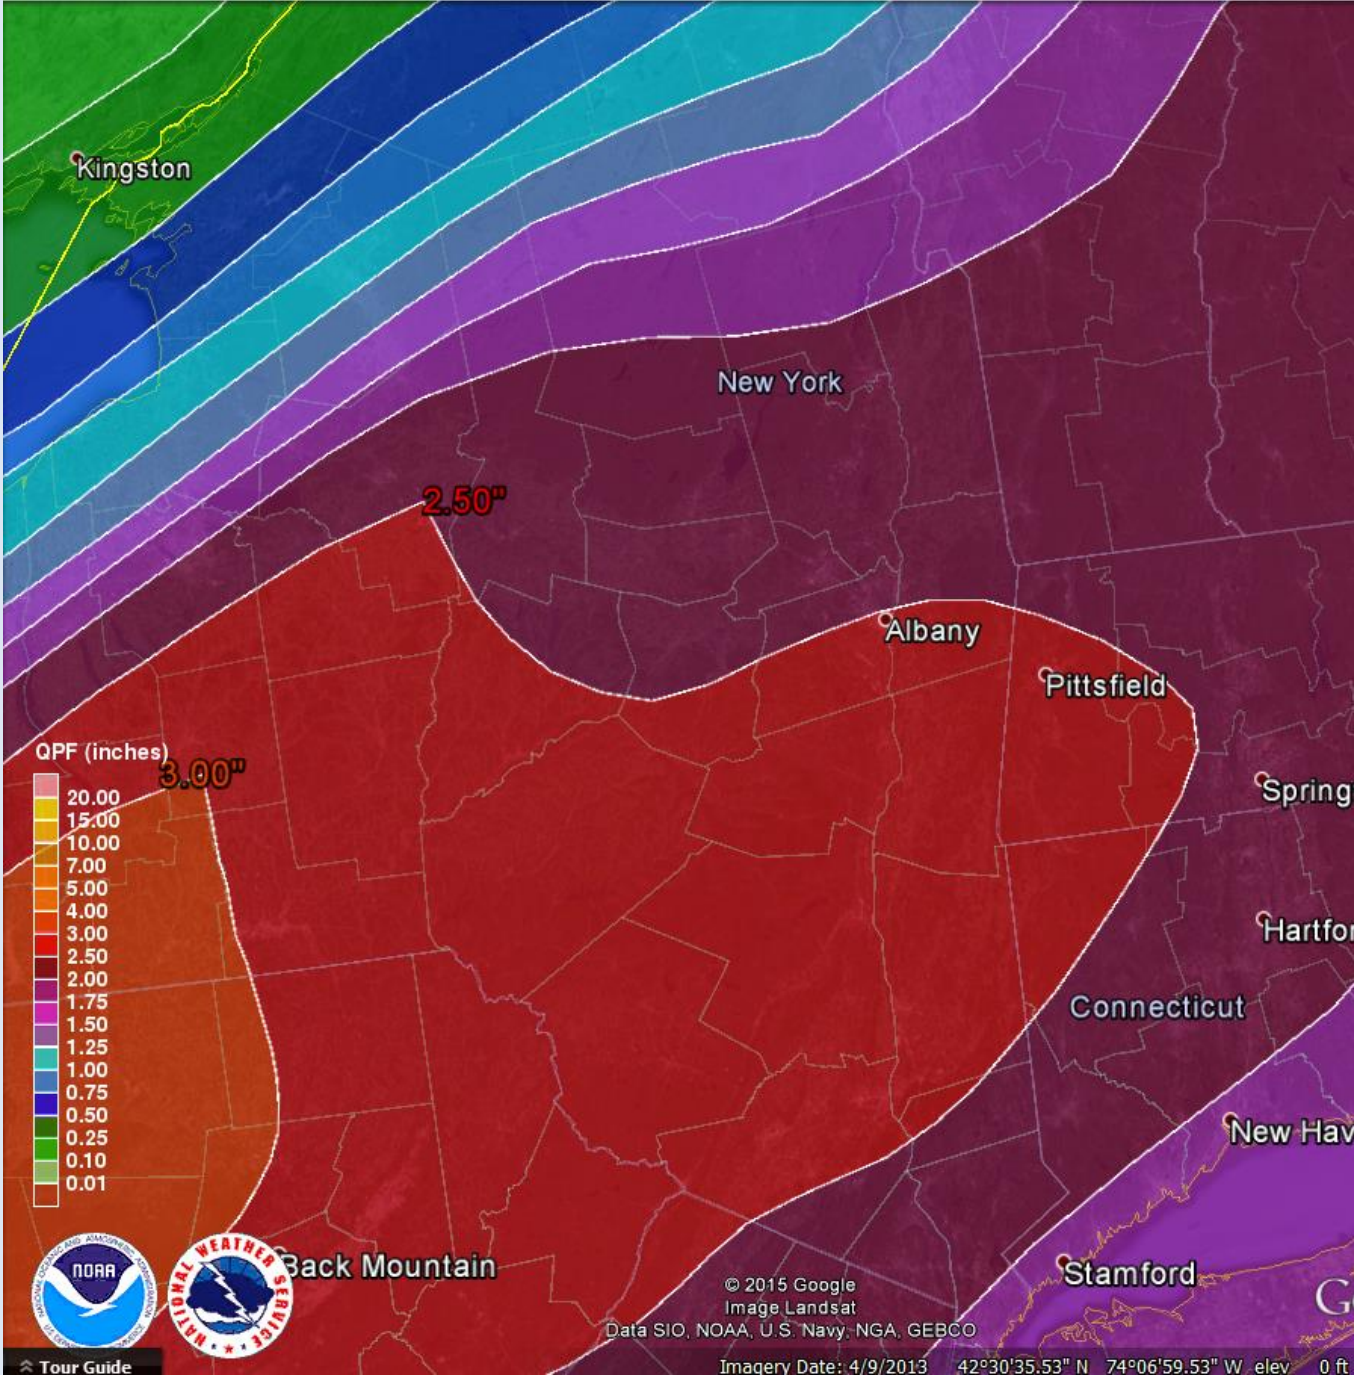

Expected frontal positions for Tuesday evening at 8 pm EDT

Latest satellite water vapor imagery shows lots of moisture heading northward

The combination of a slow-moving frontal boundary and lots of moisture coming north from the Gulf of Mexico will bring a period of heavy rainfall for late Tuesday into Wednesday.

Several inches of rainfall will be possible. Despite how dry it's been lately, we will continue to monitor the potential for flooding.

Expected Rainfall: Monday Night through Thursday

